

The Graham Company Hosts PEBA Event: Making Difficult Decisions on Healthcare Reform- Before it is Too Late

PHILADELPHIA, PA – December 13, 2011 – The Graham Company is hosting an event for the Penjerdel Employee Benefits and Compensation Association (PEBA): Making Difficult Decisions on Healthcare Reform – Before it is Too Late.

Beginning in 2014, new Healthcare Reform rules go into effect that may have a significant impact on employer sponsored health plans, and employers are unsure how these changes will effect their organization. Compounding the uncertainty is the fact that the rules will have dramatically different effects on different employers based on a number of factors including the size of employer, employee demographics and current plan design. For many employers, there are still many questions about how they can best prepare their organization for some very serious (and costly) changes likely to happen over the next several years. Now is the time to take the necessary steps to help your organization determine its role in providing employer sponsored health care and how that that impacts its overall benefits strategy.

Speakers include:

- Timothy Kennedy, Partner
Montgomery, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads, LLP
- Eric Helman, President
ContinuousHealth
- Larry Turnbull, Executive Vice President
Banet & Associates and current president of the Greater Philadelphia Underwriters Association
